

DAVID MUENCH CONVICTED IN FATAL MISHAP

David Samuel Muench, 25, Emmitsburg R. 1, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter by an Adams County jury Friday afternoon.

Muench was the driver of an auto which rolled over on the Fairfield Rd., November 17, near the home of Allen Weikert. Lloyd Douglas Gillespie, 24, Taneytown R. 2 farmer, was fatally injured in the crash, dying at the scene of a broken neck, internal injuries and a broken right leg. He apparently was thrown from the car as it went off the side of the road, climbed an embankment, rolled over and crashed into a utility pole. Muench suffered a laceration of the scalp in the crash.

State Patrolman Edwin J. Sheva, the prosecutor in the case, told the jury that when he arrived Gillespie was dead and Muench was receiving first aid from persons at the scene.

165-Foot Mark On Road

He told of a 165-foot-long mark on the road which did not appear to be a skid mark but a mark made by a tire going sideways. The accident, he said, occurred on a straight stretch of road on a slight down grade.

Muench, who was represented by Frederick Attorney Edwin S. Nikirk, Frederick, and Attorney Eugene Hartman, told of going to a tavern in Emmitsburg on the night of November 16, of having two "beers" with Gillespie, whom he met there. The two men then went to another tavern, where Muench said he had nothing to drink, and then went to the Fairfield Avenue post near Fairfield where Muench said he had three drinks of whiskey between midnight and 2:30 o'clock that morning.

Muench said he and Gillespie started for Gettysburg where they planned to get coffee and sandwiches. Enroute, Muench said, he

CRITIC LAUDS STACKPOLE'S NEW WAR BOOK

General Edward J. Stackpole's account of "The Fredericksburg Campaign" (Military Service Publishing Co., $4.75) measures up to the boast of its subtitle "Drama on the Rappahannock" and offers the Civil War fan an excellent companionpiece to the author's successful "They Met At Gettysburg." If General Stackpole, treasurer, to mine the lode of military history to which he is so attracted, the average reader will have at his disposal a highly readable, carefully researched library on the major battles of the War Between the States.

In evaluating the Fredericksburg campaign, Stackpole begins with an appraisal of General McClellan, always a thorn in the side to Lincoln, charts his fall from power and his replacement by Burnside. He gives due attention to the differences between Burnside and Halleck, appraising the responsibility of each. He notes also the Confederate strategy devised and carried out by Lee, the significance of the terrain, the dilatory tactics of the Union Army, and its eventual defeat in a battle it should have won. He concludes his account with Burnside's dismissal as commander of the Army of the Potomac.

Fixes Blame

In his critique of the campaign, Stackpole lays full blame for the fiasco in which the Union Army, outnumbering the Confederates five to three, was soundly beaten. But he hastens to point out also that while Lee displayed his usual battlefield genius, his victory might have been far more significant had he launched a counter-offensive after he had beaten his foe.

"Sprightly Writer"

Stackpole's contention, amply supported by the evidence he marshals, is that Burnside lacked some of the essential qualities of leadership and executive ability so necessary to the army commander. In addition he violated the cardinal canons of warfare in as inept a performance as a Union officer was to display

Ritter, Glenwyn Drive, Littlestown, and who died Thursday morning in the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, were conducted this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the J. W. Little and Son funeral home, Littlestown. Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Littlestown, officiated. Interment was in Mt. Carmel Cemetery, Littlestown.

The pallbearers were: Luther W. Ritter, Lloyd E. Crouse, Claude White, Charles Kump, Lloyd Humbert and A. W. Schott.

LUTHERANS TO HOLD RETREAT HERE MONDAY

Seventy-five ministers are scheduled to meet Monday at the Church of the Abiding Presence on the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary campus for a Pre-Lenten Retreat of the West Pennsylvania Conference of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Rev. T. J. Weber, Carlisle, secretary of the conference, said the service will begin at 10 o'clock Monday morning with a hymn, "Christian, Dost Thou See Them?"

Following that will be the Order for Public Confession; the Introit and Collect for Ash Wednesday; the Epistle, Joel 2:12-19; the Lenten Sentence; the Gospel; the Nicene Creed; special music by the Seminary Music department; sermon by Rev. Justus Liesman, superintendent of the Tressler Orphans Home, Lysville; offertory and offering; general prayer; hymn, "According to Thy Gracious Word"; Holy Communion, Nunc Dimittis and Thanksgiving, benediction and postlude.

Dr. Putman To Speak

Rev. Robert Shaul, Arendtsville, and Rev. Verle Schumacher, Fairfield, will serve as ushers for the Communion service.

Rev. David R. Hoover, McConnellsburg, president of the conference, will preside at the afternoon session at which Rev. Walter Guss, Neville, will be in charge of devotions.

Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, Harrisburg, president of the Central Pennsylvania Synod, will speak on "Lutheran Unity" during the afternoon session.

Officers of the conference in addition to the president and secretary are Rev. Herman G. Stuempeff Jr., Gettysburg, vice president; Col. Edwin H. Johnson, Gettysburg, treasurer; and Herbert Plaster, Chambersburg, and Fred Schneek, Greencastle R. 1, lay members.

BIGGER TAXES PAID PROMPTLY RECORD SHOWS

Biglerville residents again have set a record for paying their taxes according to the report of the town's tax collector, John C. Brown, filed with the county clerk of courts.

Brown's report shows the 599 persons assessed for occupation and per capita taxes and the 256 real estate owners paid $59,815.13 in taxes, and at the end of the year only $132 in school taxes remained unpaid.

The record shows a similar condition prevailed last year. There were no back taxes to be collected for the town, county and institution district and $102 in back taxes was collected for the school board.

Paid Promptly

And the Biglerville residents paid promptly when they received their tax notices, Brown's records show. Nearly all of the tax payers took advantage of the discount.

The collection of the $59,815.13 was made at a cost of $2,054.07 of which $1,813 was the collector's commission.

The collection showed $8,532.40 collected for the borough, $41,232.48 for the school district, $7,141.50 for the county and $2,908.66 for the institution district.

Biglerville imposes a nine mill tax, the school district a 36 mill real estate and $15 per capita tax.

Artist Speaks Here Monday Afternoon

John Muench, head of the Portland School of Art, Portland, Maine, will speak and give a demonstration on graphic arts in Room 6, Christ Chapel, on the Gettysburg College campus Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Prof. Ingolf Qually, head of the college art department, announced this morning. Mr. Muench will stress lithography.

The Portland artist studied in Paris and has achieved considerable fame in the art world in recent years.

"Where Is My Dog?"

Wayne Edwards, three, suffering with a heart ailment, waits by window in Atlanta, Ga., home with dog chain in hand for his beloved dog "Popcorn." But "Popcorn" won't come back. He died recently of distemper. The boy's parents have not told him the bad news because they're afraid it would make his heart condition worse. In the meantime they are scouting around for another dog. (AP Wirephoto)

PAINTINGS OF COVERED SPANS DISPLAYED HERE

Oil paintings of seven of Adams County's remaining covered bridges are on display in the news room display window of The Gettysburg Times.

They were painted by Mrs. Michela Pyle, Gardners R. 1, director of public relations for Knoke Foods. She is the wife of Atty. H. Thomas Pyle, of the law firm of Brown, Swope and MacPhail.

Mrs. Pyle became interested in painting Adams County's landmarks about five years ago and has done water and oils on frequent occasions.

The display in The Times window includes paintings of the Stone Jug No. 1 bridge, Beechertown bridge near Arendtsville, State Bridge near Arendtsville, the Water Works bridge, Irishtown covered bridge, the Brown's Mill span, longest in the county, and the Kohler bridge, one mile from New Oxford.

The paintings vary in size, 20 x 24 inches, 12 x 16 inches and 14 x 18 inches.

The covered bridge paintings were prompted by an order from Mrs. J. Willis Beidler, Biglerville, whose father, the late Robert Garretson, was a covered bridge enthusiast.

MRS. LAMBERT'S RITES TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Lottie M. Lambert, 86, widow of Archibald J. Lambert, who died Thursday in Hanover, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Bender Funeral Home with the Rev. Charles E. Held, Mt. Joy Lutheran pastor, officiating. Interment will be made in the Mountainview Cemetery, Hanover. The pallbearers will be Clair Fogle, Edgar Bixler, Paul Trimmer, Norman Forman, Frank Slonaker and George Johnson.

FILE ASSUMPT ACTION

An assumpt action has been filed at the courthouse here by Waugaman, Pitzer and Messner, Inc., Harrisburg, against Roy L. Plank Jr., Biglerville R. 2, to collect a claim of $282.81 which the plaintiffs say is due on insurance on a tractor-trailer and cargo bought by Mr. Plank last August and cancelled last week after $83 had been paid on the bill.

LICENSED TO MARRY

A marriage license was issued Friday afternoon at the court house to Richard Joseph Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Sylvester Smith, New Oxford, and Mabel Ellen Frait, New Oxford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McClellan Decker, York Springs R. 2.

Space Airman Showing "Real Fatigue"; Has One More Day

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Airman Donald G. Farrell today faced only one more weary, lonesome day and night in the sealed steel barrel where he is trying to prove that man can survive space travel.

Despite his growing signs of "real fatigue," space scientists at nearby Randolph Air Force Base were confident the 23-year-old native of The Bronx would finish his seven-day stint at 9:35 a.m. (CST) Sunday.

International recognition and glowing praise from Air Force military and scientific leaders await the blond, 6-foot volunteer if he successfully sweats out the last long 24 hours.

"He has never, at any time, given any indication that he wants to get out before the experiment is over," Lt. Col. George R.

EX-SCHOOL HEAD PRAISES LOCAL SCHOOL SYSTEM

"If it were not for the problems that were outlined here today, anybody could do your job of teaching school," John D. Anderson, retired superintendent of schools at Butler, Pa., told Gettysburg public school teachers Friday afternoon at the close of a day they had spent talking about ways in which they can do a better job professionally.

Dr. Anderson, who has served as a substitute teacher in the local high school, was summing up the day's results for the high school teachers. "To the extent to which you comprehend these problems and find a solution, your success will be measured," he concluded.

He had opened his remarks by praising many things about the local school system. "I would commend the Gettysburg school system for its organization and for provisions to make it possible for teachers to challenge the best efforts of their pupils," he said.

Meeting in separate sections, grade and high school teachers during morning and afternoon sessions heard reports from three teachers who last month attended a one-week reading clinic at Temple University and received reports from study groups on pupil reading, the importance of science and mathematics in grade and high schools and on the problems and ways of handling the pupils who need special help because they are considerably above or below average ability and interest levels.

Need Reading Supervisor

The need for a reading supervisor was pointed out. "Such a supervisor would correlate reading and subject materials throughout the 12 years of a pupil's schooling. We have an athletic program supervisor and there is a similar need for a reading supervisor," one teacher said.

Teacher groups who had been assigned special subjects for reports Friday in many instances distributed extensive mimeographed reports on the material they had summarized.

There were special reports on the slow learner and the "drop outs" in the high school teacher group and another group talked about "aggressive and withdrawn maladjustments." A fourth group was ready to report on "under motivated pupils" but time ran out and G. W. Lefever, high school principal, said that report will be presented later.

Cite Rigid Curriculum

The high school teachers were told that pupils who have dropped out of school have reported in a survey that unsympathetic teachers, a rigid curriculum and the requirement of Richard P. Billman, of McSherrystown, a student at Delone, won third prize of $5.

83 Essays Entered

Dr. Lloyd C. Keefe and Dr. John D. Anderson were the judges. The prizes were furnished by the McSherrystown Knights of Columbus, Bonneville Catholic War Veterans Home Association, Littlestown Eagles and the Gettysburg Eagles, Moose and Elks lodges.

Eighty-three essays were entered by students from Delone, Biglerville and New Oxford high schools. The poster contest sponsored by the Adams County committee closes February 22 and the winners will be announced March 15. $20 in prizes will be awarded.

ASC Practices To Be Outlined Monday

A meeting to outline ASC practices for the coming year will be held for farmers of the county Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Adams Electric Cooperative Building, rear N. Stratton St., E. Glenn Miller, office manager for the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Miller added that speakers outlining the programs will be from Extension Soil Conservation Service and the Farm and Home Administration.

Mercury Drops In Many Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new invasion of numbing Arctic cold swept across the mid-continent today, and widely separated sections of the country were plastered with their heaviest snowfalls of the season.

The latest frigid blast ended a brief respite of warmer temperatures in many areas, and the U. S. Weather Bureau said the cold wave could once more drop temperatures below freezing in northern Florida by nightfall.

The mercury settled well below the zero mark this morning from the northern Rockies eastward into northern Minnesota as temperatures fell more than 30 degrees from Friday readings.

Grand Forks, N. D., reported a reading of 20 below, and Huron, S. D., had an early morning low of 15 below zero, compared with 16 above a day earlier.

TWO DIRECTED TO PAY COSTS IN GUN ACTION

Melvin Shull, Gettysburg R. 4, and his father-in-law, William H. Shafer, East Berlin R. 2, were directed by an Adams County jury to pay the costs of the case Friday afternoon in a verdict of not guilty of "pointing a gun" charge Shafer had brought against Shull.

In a trial that lasted less than an hour, Shull and Shafer told their sides of the gun pointing incident which occurred between 2:30 and 3 a.m. December 14 at Shull's home in Straban Twp.

Both men professed there was no quarrel between them. Shafer intimated in his testimony that there had been some argument between his daughter and son-in-law but said he wasn't involved in that.

Court Appoints Counsel

Attorney S. McClellan Raffensperger was appointed by the court to represent Shull when he appeared without an attorney.

In its charge the court said that pointing a gun "playfully or wantonly" is a misdemeanor.

The jury took 13 minutes to reach its verdict. Members of the jury were: Benjamin Baldwin, Biglerville R. D.; Mrs. Clair Conover, Gettysburg R. 1; Ralph Grist, Gettysburg R. 4; Oscar Griffin, Abbotstown; Mrs. Laura Hoy, 58 E. Middle St.; Burgess Wilbur Plank, 123 Springs Ave.; Paul J. Reaver, Gettysburg R. 2; Guy L. Sterner, 528 York St.; Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, Ottantana R. 1; J. Francis Tananis, McSherrystown; Stewart Walker, New Oxford R. 1 and S. David Whistler, East Berlin R. 2.

Two Properties Are Transferred

The following deeds were recorded in the office of register and recorder today:

John D. Bashore and Florence A. B. Shriver, Littlestown, sold to David S. and Marion H. Little, Littlestown R. 2, a property in Littlestown for $15,000.

Frank B. and Lottie M. Decker, Hanover, sold to Lloyd A. Hippensteel, Reading Twp., a property in Hampton, for $7,500.

Two North Carolinians Sent To Allegheny Workhouse And Local Man Jailed By Court

James Edgar Tawney, 38, R. 2, was sentenced to from three to six months in the Adams County jail this morning on a charge of manufacturing moonshine. The Adams County court also assessed fines of $500 against Tawney on each of two counts of possessing illegal liquor. He had been found guilty of the three counts by a jury earlier this week.

Two North Carolina men found guilty of the same charge with Tawney were each sentenced to six to 12 months in the Allegheny County workhouse on the manufacturing charge and each fined $500 on the possession counts. The two were William Marshall Williams, 24, and Coy Rex Shue, 22, both of North Wilkesboro, N. C.

Judge W. C. Sheely said the court feels strongly about anyone coming into Adams County to set up a moonshine still and added that the county has been "remarkably free of this sort of thing." The court also noted that Williams and Shue were given longer sentences than Tawney because the two North Carolinians had prior records of moonshining while Tawney had no previous record.

Sentence Three Youths

Three young men who offered Robert Hoffman, Gettysburg R. D., a sailor hitchhiking home from his Navy base, a ride home from New Oxford on November 23 and then struck the sailor with a tire iron and took $810 from him, were all sentenced to prison.

Timothy Richard Barrett, New Oxford R. 1, who at 21 was the oldest of the three young men charged with robbery with accomplice, was sentenced to from one and one-half to three years in the Allegheny County workhouse starting with November 23, the date he was lodged in the county jail.

Robert Arthur Imler, Hanover, and John Burrows Polhemus, Abbotstown R. 1, both 19, were sentenced to indeterminate terms in the Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hall.

Mother On Probation

Mrs. Mary Menchey, Hanover R. 5, mother of six children, was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for a year on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and receiving stolen goods. Mrs. Menchey, who had been found guilty by a jury this week of receiving $31.50 which her 13-year-old son was said to have stolen from a New Oxford service station, was directed to make restitution of $17.10, the amount still remaining from the $31.50, and pay the costs.

Becker Is Jailed

County Probation Officer D. M. Anderson, who was the prosecutor in the case against Mrs. Menchey, asked the court to show leniency because "certain members of the families do not give her the consideration due a wife and mother, and I think she has learned her lesson."

John D. Becker, S. Washington St. merchant, found guilty by a jury this week of receiving stolen goods and an eight-count charge of violation of the Uniform Firearms Act, was sentenced to from three to six months in the county jail on each charge, with the sentences to run concurrently. Judge Sheely imposing sentence said, "You have made money your god and don't care how you get it." The court directed that a pistol sold by Becker to a Puerto Rican be confiscated and that rings stolen from Mrs. Clarence R. Thompson Jr. be returned to her.

Escaped From Jail

On June 1, 1955, he was arrested in Warrenton N. C., for illegal manufacturing of liquor, and sentenced to 18 months in jail. He was placed on parole February 29, 1956 for 18 months and on February 21, 1957 the parole was revoked.

According to the record presented to the court, Shew had been in jail six days when on February 27, 1967 he escaped from the Caldwell County Prison at Lenoir, N. C. A detainer has been filed in Adams County by North Carolina authorities to return Shew there to answer the jailbreak charge when Adams county release him.

Sentence Marylander

David Samuel Muench, 25, Emmitsburg R. 1, was sentenced to six months in the Allegheny County workhouse and was ordered to pay the costs on a charge of involuntary manslaughter on which he was convicted by a jury Friday afternoon.

Cyrus J. Keefer, 119 E. Middle St., was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and ordered to pay $50 for the use of the county and the costs on a charge of driving while under the influence. He was told that the court would be inclined to reduce the jail sentence if Keefer can make arrangements

Fred E. Benton, 77, Littlestown R. 1, Dies

Fred E. Benton, 77, a retired farmer who lived for the last six years on Littlestown R. 1 but formerly resided at White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., died Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Warner Hospital where he had been a patient for the last week.

He was a son of the late Martin and Sarah (Bryan) Benton and is survived by his wife, Nettie Christi Benton; three daughters, Mrs. Madeline Heinle, White Sulphur Springs; Mrs. Doris Kerrigan, Albany, N. Y.; and Mrs. Melba Wojtkowiak, Littlestown R. 1; a foster son, Reginald Benton, New Berlin, N. Y.; 13 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The body will be taken by J. W. Little and Son, Littlestown funeral directors, to Liberty, N. Y., where funeral services will be arranged.

JAILED FOR HEARING

Clarence H. Smith, Gettysburg R. 2 was arrested Friday evening by borough police charged with driving under the influence. He was lodged in jail pending a hearing before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

CHEST DRIVE IN FINAL PUSH

Gettysburg Community Chest is hopeful of reaching its goal of $22,000 to provide operating funds for six local organizations.

Gordon J. Webster, in a letter to a number of prior donors to the Chest fund, noted that the fund raising organization is "now within $850 of its goal."

He added that "if we reach it, it will be the first time in eight years that the goal has been met," and "it will demonstrate to the citizens of Gettysburg that the Community Chest plan is practical and can be accomplished; it will be step towards the ultimate end of the Community Chest principle which is one fund raising per year instead of many."

With 96 per cent of the amount sought raised, Webster suggested that each of the persons to whom he wrote make a contribution in addition to the amount already given in order to put the drive over the top.

He noted that "if 100 people will $10 additional the amount required will be more than raised."

REDS DRIVING HARD AGAINST CHRISTIANITY

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Communist party is stepping up its drive against religion.

An unceasing flow of news from the Soviet Union and articles in the Soviet press show the Kremlin is pushing energetically its campaign against Christianity and other religious faiths.

A week ago, for instance, Kom-somol Pravda, the Young Communist League paper, declared religious holiday, present a "real danger" to League activities. It called on young communists to be alert in preventing young believers from getting the upper hand in things during such religious holiday periods. This amounted to an appeal to League members to wage war on observance of church festivals and holy days.

Anti-Faith Campaign
Only a short time ago the paper Chernomorskaya Kommuna of Odessa demanded intensification of antireligious and atheist education and indoctrination of workers.

Radio Orenburg, in the southern Ural, complained that not enough lectures on "scientific-atheistic" propaganda were being given in that area and demanded it be stepped up. Another Soviet radio station reported that in the first few weeks of January more than 20 antireligious lectures had been given in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine.

Ukrainian Communist authorities appear gravely concerned about religious activity in that republic. A Kiev Russian language newspaper, Pravda Ukrainy, demanded on Jan. 17 that atheist propaganda be intensified in order to counteract the influence of religious sermons on certain "in-liable and poorly educated people."

College Graduate Accepts New Call

Rev. Eugene Gardner has resigned as assistant pastor of the Waynesboro Lutheran Church, effective June 1, to accept a post with the Board of American Missions as a mission developer.

Mr. Gardner will be sent to the Woodlawn section of Baltimore, where he will organize a congregation.

Mr. Gardner was named assistant to Rev. Glenn L. Stahl, July 1, 1956, after his graduation from Gettysburg College.

TRUCK DAMAGES AUTO

A car driven by Miss Catherine E. Henry, 21, East Berlin R. 2, and a truck of the Ehrhart-Conrad Co., Hanover, operated by Leroy E. Wilt, 19, Abbottstown R. 1, were involved in an accident at Baltimore Street and the first alley south of Walnut Street in Hanover about 1:45 p.m. Thursday. Damage to the car amounted to $95. No damage resulted to the truck, police stated.

JUROR IS HELD FOR CONSPIRACY

READING, Pa. — A member of the December grand jury that indicted four Reading area men for conspiracy has been held for court on a charge of attempting to influence a co-member.

The charge was placed yesterday against Thomas Williams, 80, of Franklin, after Mrs. Persis Bauscher, who was also a member of the grand jury, testified before Alderman Charles E. Lease that Williams telephoned her and suggested an attempt to "throw out" the indictments against the men.

Mrs. Bauscher testified she later called state police Sgt. Edward J. Strickland about the incident.

The four men, Alex Fudemian, his brother, Louis; John Wittig and Abraham Minker, were indicted by the grand jury on Jan. 24. The Fudemians and Wittig were indicted for extortion and conspiracy. A Minker was indicted for conspiracy. The charges grew out of an investigation by Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride of alleged vice conditions in Berks County.

Call More Witnesses In Incinerator Deal

MEDIA, Pa. — The Delaware County grand jury investigating details of a $1,000,000 Upper Darby Twp. incinerator deal that fell through amidst charges of conspiracy is in recess until Tuesday when it will call more witnesses.

Already 58 persons have testified. Seven more have been summoned by Clement J. McGovern, Delaware County district attorney. Meanwhile, attorneys in two separate legal moves challenged a taxpayers action that, like the grand jury, seeks to obtain all the details of the controversial land lease deal on which speculators allegedly stood to make $1,500,000 profit over a 40-year period. The taxpayers suit named Samuel R. Dickey, Upper Darby Republican leader, as one of the prime movers in the deal. Atty. Albert Blumberg, representing Dickey, moved that Dickey's name be dropped from the complaint.

Prisoner Suicides In Carlisle Jail

CARLISLE, Pa. — A prisoner was found hanging in his cell at the Cumberland County jail yesterday. William Minnich, deputy sheriff, identified him as John Albert, 49, of Mechanicsburg. Minnich said Albert was serving a year's term for assault with intent to kill and pointing a deadly weapon. He was committed last July 4 and would have been eligible for parole next month, Minnich added.

Minnich said the prisoner left a note leaving all his belongings to a jailer, Elmer Hippensteel. Albert had been ailing, Minnich said.

SAN FRANCISCO — Hilton Hotels Corp. has picked up options for a square block for the site of a 1,000-room, 23 million dollar hotel in downtown San Francisco. Hilton officials said construction would take about two years.

25 PERSONS AT EGG SCHOOL

Approximately 25 producers and retailers attended the egg grading school sponsored by the extension office Friday at the Adams Electric Cooperative, rear of N. Stratton St., Wesley Kriebel, regional marketing agent, announced today.

The procedure and method of determining quality eggs internally and externally were explained and those attending observed the correct way of candling their own eggs.

E. L. Lawless, chief poultry inspector of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Markets, spoke on the revision of standards of grading and marketing eggs. C. O. Dossin, extension poultry specialist from Pennsylvania State University, discussed the management of poultry flocks with emphasis on producing quality eggs.

Kriebel said those unable to attend the sessions may receive instructions through the extension office in the court house. An egg candler will be in the office for those who wish to bring in eggs.

BUYING SLOW ON MART TODAY

Produce was ample this morning at the Farmers Market but buying was slow.

Chickens, liver, backbone and ribs were 50 cents a pound; soups, 25 cents a pound; scrapple, 25 cents a pound; fresh sausage, 60 cents a pound.

Eggs, small to jumbo size, ranged from 45 to 60 cents a dozen; cream, 20 cents a half pint; 40 cents a pint; butter, 13 cents a quart, 25 cents a half gallon; jellies, 25 cents a jar; angel food cakes, $1.49 each; coconut cream pies, 50 and 75 cents each; white and chocolate cakes $1 each; cookies, 30 cents a dozen. Turnips, onions, and carrots, 20 cents a box; dried apples, 30 cents a box; apples and potatoes, 30 cents a quarter peck, 50 cents a half peck, 90 cents for one peck, and $2.50 a bushel.

Coutians Involved In Carlisle Crashes

An auto accident in Carlisle resulted in a charge against a motorist who, Carlisle police said, did not stop at the scene of the accident. Police said David Martin Cox, 20, Aspers R. 1, was traveling south on N. Hanover St. Thursday night and his auto struck the rear of an unattended parked car, owned by Richard C. Adams, Carlisle. Police said Cox backed up and drove away from the scene and was then stopped by police.

Damage was estimated at $100 to Cox vehicle and $50 to the Adams car.

In another accident on N. Hanover St., Carlisle, Thursday morning, damage was slight in a collision of a panel truck, operated by Robert G. Dittenhafer, 29, Carlisle R. 2, and an auto driven by Robert Cline, 38, Gardner R. 2.

Carlisle police said Cline's car was following too close at the intersection of Hanover and Penn Sts. and caught the rear bumper of the truck.

Two Teachers At Penn State Die
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Pennsylvania State University today mourned the loss of two prominent members of its faculty, Joseph P. O'Brien and Dr. George F. Leffler.

O'Brien, professor of public speaking and coach of men's debate since joining the faculty in 1928, died yesterday in Centre County Hospital at Bellefonte. He was 54.

Dr. Leffler, 59, assistant dean of research in the College of Business Administration, died yesterday in Philadelphia at Presbyterian Hospital. He had been a faculty member since 1937 and also edited the Pennsylvania Business Survey and was professor of finance and director of planning in the business school.

O'Brien was president of the Pennsylvania Speech Assn. and adviser to the Pennsylvania debater's convention held here each spring.

ECONOMY METER HITS NEW LOW

WASHINGTON — Industrial production, a major barometer of the nation's economic condition, dropped to its lowest level in three years last month.

The Federal Reserve Board, reporting this yesterday, said curtailments in automobiles and other durable goods accounted for most of the drop. It was the fifth straight month of decline.

The Board said its industrial index fell three points in January to 133 per cent of the 1947-49 average, the lowest point since February 1955. It was 9 per cent below the index for January last year.

The index stood at 145 last August but dropped one point in September and has been going down every month since.

Among industries recording a January production drop were steel, textiles, petroleum and those making non-durable goods, the Board said. Aircraft and mineral output held steady, the report said.

RENO — A gunman took $50 from bartender Jack Whitfield's till, then asked for the contents of a large jug at the back of the bar. Whitfield protested. He explained the money had been given by patrons for a crippled child's fund.

The gunman didn't touch the jug—which contained between $300 and $500.

PROPOSE $500 CASH TO KIDS WHO KNOW MATH

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON — Brush up on your math, kids—there may be gold in them thar equations and theorems.

Several Congress members have proposed $500 cash awards to any high school graduate who can pass a standard examination in mathematics.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.), one sponsor of the legislation, said "everyone who has heard of this proposal likes it." He did not say whether this support has been voiced by Congress members, the general public, or both. The bill is pending before a House Commerce subcommittee.

Dr. Alan Waterman, chief of the National Science Foundation, said yesterday the proposal has "much to recommend it" as a means of helping increase the nation's future supply of scientists.

Effective Idea
Waterman, testifying before a Senate-House Atomic subcommittee on Research and Development, said he felt the idea would be very effective in encouraging more students to study math and in preparing them to go on to higher studies in science, engineering and mathematics.

But Waterman also indicated a belief that more steps than that would be needed to increase the production of scientists and engineers, and to expand the nation's output of basic scientific research.

Price said the cash award proposal not only would provide an incentive for more boys and girls to become proficient in mathematics, but also might be a means of showing up any deficiencies in the teaching of the subject.

Expect Competition
There would be competition among high schools all over the country, he said, to see how many of their young people could pass such an examination.

And in those places where the number passing turned out to be low, Price said, "The local people would try to find out why their community was behind the others."

News Briefs
WHARTON, N. J. — Neighbors think they know how Peter Hegedus accumulated the $3,100 found crammed in his pockets and $43,000 in savings accounts.

"He saved every nickel he ever made," said one after the 78-year-old former street cleaner was found dead Thursday in his littered shack.

Hegedus had on five pairs of pants, a couple of coats and several shirts. Stuffed in his pockets were $1,000 in 10-dollar bills, $1,800 in 20s, $300 in 50s, a few smaller bills and $1.32 in silver.

Bankbooks found in the shack showed deposits of $4,884 in the National Union Bank and the Dover Trust Co. of nearby Dover.

NEW YORK — Charles Gelsinger, about 40, manager of the Monomnock and High Point Inn in Pennsylvania's Pocono Mountains at Cresco, was found dead yesterday in his Hotel Statler room. He had registered Thursday alone.

Police said he apparently died of a heart attack.

HONG KONG — A Communist newspaper said today two Nationalist Chinese espionage agents have been executed in Canton.

The paper T'ung Pao said the two joined the Nationalist espionage organization in Hong Kong in 1953 and were assigned to collect movie house last Oct. 10, but were arrested before they could do so, the paper said.

LANCASTER, Pa. — Franklin and Marshall college trustees have increased tuition $100 and room and board fees an average of $111 a year.

The trustees yesterday also authorized increases in faculty salaries based on merit. The increases would average five per cent of the faculty payroll.

The school's tuition next fall will be $900 with room and board fees increased to $710.

READING, Pa. — Two victims of recent separate automobile accidents died yesterday of their injuries.

Lawyer Lincoln For The Defense

By CARL G. HODGES

(FINAL INSTALLMENT)

This concludes a narration of Abraham Lincoln's most famous case as a lawyer. In May 1858, a few months before his historic debate with Stephen Douglas in the Illinois senatorial campaign, Lincoln undertook the defense of the son of an old friend. The youth, Duff Armstrong, was accused of the murder of James Metzger, during a drunken brawl late one night the previous August.

CHAPTER VI

There were more character witnesses who testified on behalf of Duff Armstrong; some of them questioned by Abe Lincoln, some relieved of their testimony by William Walker. None seemed to make much impression on Judge or jury. Judge Harriott reached frequently for the pitcher of water, one juror took catnaps, babies cried in the stifling heat as the machinery of justice in Cass County creaked relentlessly on.

Hugh Fullerton was a trial-tested lawyer, an able prosecutor. He was also slightly clairvoyant. He had stared into the eyes of enough jurors in his time to read their thoughts and foretell their reactions. As he arose to address them with his closing arguments he saw no change in them aroused by anything the defense had said; no awareness that defense witness statements had changed their thinking. He was confident that their verdict was already known to them; that Duff Armstrong was guilty of murder, and that Hugh Fullerton, champion of the people, had convicted another criminal at the bar of justice.

Supremely Confident

He was supremely confident as he summed up his case. He used short words, short sentences and he had a way of delivery that seemed to underscore the words he wanted to stress and make them travel through what he termed "the solid skulls of the jury." Fullerton had little respect for jurors. A truly smart man, like himself, could easily guide them the way he wanted them. He stressed three things in his summing up: Duff Armstrong was crazy about liquor, race-horses and fighting. Duff was a regular troublemaker who had beaten up men before the fatal attack on Metzger. Charles Allen had seen Armstrong strike Metzger the fatal blow.

Fullerton sat down, perspiring, but conscious of the jurors looking at each other as if to say that his remarks had mirrored their own thoughts. Everything that could be said had been said. Get the trial over with.

Smiles At Jurist

Abe Lincoln stood up from the counsel table slowly, like a jack-knife opening up. He squared himself at his full height, smiled sadly at Judge Harriott, and gave a nod to Hannah and Duff Armstrong, just beyond the rail. Then he contemplated one group of jurymen after the other, his thumbs hooked in the lapels of that faded frock coat, his hair unruly, his collar awry about his scrawny neck, but the fire of determination burning in his somber eyes.

"Gentlemen," he said, "you have heard the evidence, gathered and presented by men, to prove the guilt or innocence of a man for the murder of another man.

"Courts were created to mete out justice. So that the rich and the poor, the strong and the weak, receive their just deserts. But there are shortcomings in jurisprudence, loopholes in statutes, and a lack of understanding that men and women are first human beings, and not chattels to be governed solely by printed regulations in a book of laws."

Face Is Lined, Haggard

He paused and took off the coat and put it on his chair. The audience could see the half-moons of sweat under the arms of his wrinkled shirt. The straps of the home-knit "galluses" had worn damp stripes across his shoulders — there was a dark moon of perspiration across the small of his back. Sweat ran unchecked down his swarthy face and made his collar cling like a rag around his neck.

He moved across the space behind the rail, his face lined and haggard, a brooding restlessness in his eyes as he searched the faces of the jurors. He pointed a bony hand at Hannah Armstrong.

"There, gentlemen, of the jury, sits one of my oldest friends. Beside her a young man whom I once dandled on my knee. I have known this woman since first I came to Illinois. Her husband I knew as intimately as it is possible to know someone with whom you have fought as an enemy and turned into a friend. Jack Armstrong, husband of this woman and father of this boy, departed this world at the same time his son was languishing in the Mason County jail. It was Jack Armstrong's dying plea to his widow that the family farm of forty acres be sold and the proceeds applied to the legal defense of their son.

Accepts No Fee

"For this defense, Abe Lincoln will accept no fee. When I first came to Illinois as a raw, untutored boatman at wages of $10 per month, I settled at New Salem. I had no family, no friends, I was tired, hungry, lonely — a lost and bewildered soul on a rough frontier.

"Hannah and Jack Armstrong were my true friends then. I ate their food, I shared the shelter of their roof. Hannah Armstrong once fixed the seat of my pants with deer skin so they wouldn't wear out so quick in the brush when I was splitting rails. She was a mother to a raw and unschooled greenhorn who had no mother of his own to turn to.

"She shared my troubles, she gave me sound advice at all times. As I mentioned to you, I dandled Duff Armstrong on my knee. I knew the entire Armstrong brood. They gave freely and willingly of everything they had. They lavished love and understanding on all with whom they came in contact."

"My Heart Is Heavy"

He ambled across the room, his head down so that his chin almost touched his breast and his eyes held the shine of tears. "Is it any wonder then, my friends, that my heart is heavy as I stand in this court of justice, pleading for the acquittal of William Duff Armstrong?"

The jury was told by the court that a person who had been fighting off sleep would be considered guilty because he had prior warning, but that a person who had no prior warning might not be guilty of involuntary manslaughter if he suddenly fell asleep.

The jury debated the matter for 35 minutes, returned with its verdict of guilty at 4:10 o'clock. Gordon J. Webster, 248 Buford Ave., was foreman for the jury which also included Margaret Vines, Aspers; John M. Schultz, New Oxford R. 2; James Riggeal, Orrtanna; John H. Plank, Gettysburg R. 1; June Miller, Idaville; Earl Kaiser, New Oxford; George W. Gordon, Hampton; Marie T. Bushey, Hanover; William Breighner, New Oxford R. 2; Ralph W. Boyer, East Berlin, and Howard Beck, Biglerville R. 1.

The following new members have been received into St. James United Church of Christ, along the Harney Rd., by letter of transfer, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hildebrand and two children, from St. Paul's (Wolfe's) United Church of Christ, York, R. 5, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Study and four children from St. Mary's United Church of Christ, Silver Run.

The Hustlers' Class of Redeemer's United Church of Christ will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George C. DeHoff, S. Queen St. The Misses Malva and Louise Duterra will be associate hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. White and son, Kandy, near town, accompanied by Mrs. White's sister, Mrs. Max Sherman, Gettysburg, and Mrs. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Culp, Arendtsville, are spending several days with the latter's daughter, Mrs. P. N. Lempeis, and family, Charlotte, N. C.

The Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth D. James, Glen Rock, and the Rev. Charles B. Rebert were Wednesday evening dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs. David S. Kammerer, W. King St.

An assembly program "Showboat to Broadway" will be presented in the Littlestown Junior - Senior high school Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

LITTLESTOWN — Plans for the Better Homes and Gardens Show were discussed at a meeting of Ocker - Snyder American Legion Post Thursday evening at the post home. The show will replace the minstrelns and will be held April 24, 25 and 26 in St. Aloysius Hall. The Ladies' Auxiliary will be in charge of refreshments.

Edwin A. Bell reported that uniforms for the ceremonial detail are available.

Approximately one hundred persons attended the parish party held Thursday evening by the Holy Name Society of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, in the parish hall. There were dancing and cards.

Entertainment consisted of tap dancing by Sharon Zumburum, accompanied by Betty Wallick; vocal solos, Stewart N. Long, accompanied by Miss Anna C. Weaver; instrumental selections by The Metro-nomes, students from Delone Catholic High School, Nadine Miller, cornet, Anita Ditzler, playing drums, Geneva Carbaugh, accordion, and Again a reasonable doubt as to the guilt of my client.

"Gentlemen of the jury, I came into this case as a matter of friendship. I believe firmly in the innocence of the son of my old friends and by serving him I hope in some small measure to repay the debt I owe the family. I hope and pray that you will imagine yourself in the same situation in strong from the charge of murder.

This photo was made the day the Duff Armstrong trial ended. Stefan Lorant, in the authoritative "Lincoln: A Picture Story of His Life" (Harper & Bros.), said that while Lincoln was walking away from the courthouse at Beardstown, the photographer Abraham M. Byers stopped him on the street and asked him to his gallery. "Lincoln, looking at his old Holland suit without any semblance of starch in it, protested, 'These clothes are dirty and unfit for a picture.' But Byers insisted, and Lincoln followed him to the studio where on May 7, 1858, this ambrotype was taken." Ambrotype was an advanced form of daguerrotype, in which the film was developed on a glass plate.

"My heart is heavy because a witness for the state has testified that he saw my client strike the blow that took a human life, when that same witness cannot deny that his testimony bequeaths to himself the ability to see in the dark better than most folks see which my young client finds himself. I trust you will reflect on what I have said about the existence of a reasonable doubt and that your good judgment and common sense will allow you to render a fair decision."

Jury Had Turned

Hugh Fullerton got up and strove mightily in his rebuttal. He turned on the full force of booming words and his charming personality but he was talking to a jury that had been turned against him.

His presentation was not helped by the charge that the judge gave to the jury, a charge in which the judge included certain instructions requested by Lincoln in a draft he had carefully written out and handed up to Harriott.

Twenty minutes later the foreman of the jury, Milton Logan, stood up in the jury box on the right side of the room, and in answer to Judge Harriott's routine question, said, "We find the defendant NOT GUILTY!"

Clinks To Her Son Hannah Armstrong clung to her son and to the tall, ungainly lawyer with the homely face and the swasty shirt and unruly hair as sob of joy shook her tiny frame. "Thank God! Thank God! Thank you, Abe!"

Abe Lincoln put his arms around the wife and son of his old friend and led them out of the room.

In the daylight, his testimony on his seeing ability casts serious doubts on the honesty and truthfulness of all his testimony.

"Therefore, I say to you, gentlemen of the jury, there is more than reasonable doubt as to the guilt of my client. Dr. Parker has given his expert and considered opinion that the eye injury and skull fracture that was fatal to James Metzger might easily have been caused by a fall from his horse. Reasonable doubt as to my client's guilt. Young William Watkins testified that the weapon allegedly used by my client was still in his (Watkins') possession the day after the alleged attack.

The court instructs the jury. That if they have any reasonable doubt as to whether Metzger came to his death by the blow on the eye, or by the blow on the back of the head, they are to find the defendant "not guilty" unless they also believe that Armstrong and Norm acted by concert, against Metzger, and that Norm struck the blow on the back of the head.

That if they believe from the evidence that Norm killed Metzger, they are to acquit Armstrong, unless they also believe beyond a reasonable doubt that Armstrong acted in concert with Norm in the killing, or join you to kill or hurt Metzger.

In accordance with the custom of trial lawyers, Lincoln wrote out the points the defense wanted to have stressed in the judge's charge to the jury in the Duff Armstrong trial. This is a facsimile of part of the draft he gave Judge James Harriott. The judge included it in his charge.

Suspended Sentences Donald Eugene Kimple, Fayetteville R. 2; Dale Kenneth Miller, McKnightstown; Ronald McCrea Currens, Arendtsville, were each given suspended sentences on charges of malicious mischief and placed on probation for one year on condition that each pay $250 for the use of the county and the costs. The three young men were said by police to have upset four fruit stands in the western part of the county, slashed pumps, and threw a bushel of apples through windows causing an estimated $90 damage on the night of October 5.

Donald Kimple and Robert Kimple, Orrtanna R. 1, were each ordered to pay $100 and costs on a violation of the Uniform Firearms Act. State police told the court that the two young men had possession of a pistol with which another young man was shot at the Tick Tock Service Station. Police said the Kimples were not at the station at the time of the shooting but arrived afterwards, regained possession of the pistol and then fired a shot from still another pistol with the intent of claiming the second weapon was the one with which the youth had been shot. The court ordered confiscation of both of the weapons.

Lose Driver's License Jack Metzger, Carlisle, and Marilyn B. Highlands, Hanover, were each given suspended sentences, ordered to pay $150 for the use of the county and costs, and their drivers' licenses were suspended for one year on a charge of assault and battery brought against them by William L. Ingle. The two told the court they had gotten out of a car near Cross Keys December 7 and had beaten Ingle after opening his car door. The car in which Metzger and Highlands were passengers had forced Ingle's car off the road.

Metzger, a paratrooper, said that he did not know Ingle very well. Both said the group in their car had gotten angry at Ingle but would give no reason for their anger or actions.

Jailed And Fined Bruce E. Klinefelter, R. 5, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, ordered to pay $50 for the use of the county and the costs, on a charge of driving while under the influence.

William T. Heyser, Biglerville, was given a suspended sentence and ordered to pay $150 for the use of the county and the costs on a charge of driving while his operator's license was suspended.

Carroll Bankert and John Brillhart, both of Hanover, were each fined $500 for the use of the county and ordered to pay the costs on charges of selling an illegal quantity of beer and with selling to minors. Both are bartenders at an Elm Ave., Hanover, cafe.

George Herrell, McSherrystown, was ordered to pay a $500 fine for the use of the county and the costs on a charge of selling alcoholic beverages to minors. He is a bartender at the Buzz Inn, McSherrystown. The court was told that the minors who purchased the beer from Herrell were later apprehended in a McSherrystown cemetery.

Robert A. Hartlaub, Littlestown R. 2, charged with driving during suspension, was given a suspended sentence on condition he pay $150 for the use of the county and the costs.

George E. Smith, Orrtanna R. 1, was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for six months on condition he pay $150 for use of the county and the costs on a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

Mary Lou French, piano; vocal solos, Geneva Carbaugh. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Long, Florida, have sold their home on Prince St. to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur I. Mayers and family, of town. The sale was made through Stanley R. Sell, local real estate agent.

EX-SCHOOL HEAD

A C average for participation in many school activities were their reasons for dropping out of high school. Paul R. Mehring, assistant principal at the high school, observed: "It appears we need to give pupils more help toward successful living."

He noted that "dropouts who didn't like their teachers usually didn't like their bosses on their first jobs."

The "dropouts" were described as a "loss to society" who almost never return for further formal education.

Some reports showed that Gettysburg High School's holding power is about 72.5 per cent although one teacher group report showed 47 dropped out during the last school year, less than 5 per cent of the school's total enrollment. Sixteen of them had IQ's over 100 but most were below average, the report showed. Lack of interest and home incentive to continue were given as the reason for most of the dropouts. Second most important reason was marriage. Sixteen left school because they wed during student days.

Help Slow Learners The section on the "slow learner" or the pupil whose limited inherent mental capacity makes him a problem brought out the point that a sympathetic teacher who can identify such a pupil early, encourage him with curriculum adjustments that give him a chance for success at his level are the best means of keeping such pupils from becoming dropouts.

One teacher in the Junior High School with a high percentage of slow learners (20 out of 90) said surveys showed their chief interests to be "hot rods, girls, stamps and model building." Attention to their interests, extensive use of films and special readers and encouragement of their interest in drawing and coloring have proved helpful, she said.

In the morning Mrs. Ruth Scott Wisler, one of three teachers who attended the Temple reading clinic, reported on information secured there. It was she who pointed up the need for a reading supervisor as she told of the need for coordination in grades and subjects to identify reading needs and promote progress. A teacher's readiness as well as the pupil's readiness is important in teaching, she said.

Need "Moral Fiber" Pupils' reading levels for independent reading, a developmental program and attention for retarded readers were discussed by Mrs. Wisler. She explained "frustration" and "capacity" levels of reading encountered by pupils and areas in which teachers can help.

Indicating the extent of pupils' interest in reading, she said young people spend four times as much money on "shallow, flimsy and crime breeding literature as is spent on all the text books in the United States." She spoke of the importance of providing material with moral fiber for juvenile reading as a deterrent to delinquency.

Grade school teachers at their morning meeting heard reports from Miss Jean Biggs and Paul Burkholder on the Temple reading clinic. Reading and science in the elementary grades were topics for later sessions.

Best Plan Used Here The teachers discussed "where girls lose interest in science" and one teacher said 32 per cent of Russian engineers are women while

Victor Borge On TV For Pontiac

For the first time in his career, Victor Borge, TV and stage personality, will do a show in which he shares the spotlight with other talent.

Sponsored by Pontiac, Borge's departure from his one-man format will be seen live on CBS-TV, February 19.

The one-hour spectacular is being called "Victor Borge's All-New 48½ man (including 2 women and 1 small boy) Show." In addition to Borge, his wit and his piano, the show will feature bits of business with opera singer Marguerite Piazza, dancing stars Bambi Lynn and Rod Alexander, and others.

A. E. Hutchison, H. & H. Machine Shop, Pontiac Sales & Service, says the show's title will be explained by Borge during the telecast.

UNION LEADERS LOSE APPEAL

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—The conspiracy convictions of four Scranton labor leaders has been upheld by Pennsylvania's Supreme Court.

The four were convicted last July of involvement in the dynamiting of a non-union home here on May 1, 1954. An appeal to the State Superior Court failed and yesterday the Supreme Court turned down the request for a new trial or acquittal.

The four are Joseph F. Bartell, president of the Scranton Building Trades Council and business representatives of Local 261, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Philip F. Brady, vice president of the Trades Council, and business agent of Local 81, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Anthony Bonacuse, trustee of the Trades Council and business manager of Local 130, Union of Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers, and John A. Durkin, financial secretary-treasurer and business agent of Local 229, General Drivers and Helpers Union, and vice president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

only one per cent of U. S. engineers are females.

The system used in the Gettysburg schools of providing science textbooks from the Second through the Sixth grades was described as the best modern practice. Some schools have "surprisingly little science taught," the teachers were told.

On the matter of elementary reading, it was pointed out that about 40 per cent of the First graders are "not ready to learn to read yet we have to teach them to read and are expected to promote about 90 per cent of them." Kindergartens usually are helpful in giving children group experience but some are not well adjusted at home and that reflects in their school work. Home interest ranges all the way from "too much to too little," the teachers agreed.

A group of Waynesboro High School teachers came here as observers in the afternoon session of the high school meeting.

Dan Strickler Lauds Lincoln At Annual Fete: "It is fitting that we of the Republican party honor Abraham Lincoln on the anniversary of his birth because Lincoln was not only a great American, but he was also a great Republican." Lt. Gov. Daniel B. Strickler, of Lancaster, declared at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner of the Adams County Republican committee Friday night at the Hotel Gettysburg.

Commissioners Plan 4-Mill Increase In County Taxes; Cite Rising Costs As Reason: A four-mill increase of county taxes this year is contemplated by the Adams county commissioners according to the proposed budgets for the county and institution district now on view at the court house.

The general county taxes are scheduled for an upward revision from 6 1/2 to 8 mills, which plus the one-half mill tax for the jail bonds, which is now mandatory, will make the total general tax 8 1/2 mills, an increase of two mills.

The institution district tax will be increased by two mills to four mills, thus making the tax rate in 1948 total 12 1/2 mills.

Cinder Crews Busy As Ice Sheets Highways: Freezing rain, which began early today, glazed sidewalks, streets and highways in this area and made both walking and driving hazardous.

Cinder crews from the state highway garage here swung into action this morning and were kept busy taking care of the danger spots.

First Reports Of Newcastle Disease Here: Adams county farmers may as well resign themselves to their poultry flocks having Newcastle disease, Carl O. Dossin, extension poultry specialist, indicated Wednesday afternoon at a meeting held by the Adams county agricultural Extension Association at the court house for poultry raisers.

The first reports of any Newcastle disease in the county were presented at Wednesday's meeting when two of the growers reported that the sickness had hit their flocks.

"If your neighbor has it, you might as well figure that you have it too," Dossin said. He added that the disease, which has come to this country from Newcastle, England, where it was discovered and where it wiped out 90 per cent of the chickens, is not too serious in its present form in the United States. He added that "up to the present time" there is very little if anything that can be done when the illness strikes the flocks.

Mrs. Lewars Is Made Honorary Member Of Club: Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars has accepted the invitation of the Woman's Club of Gettysburg to become its first honorary life member, it was announced at the regular meeting of the club Wednesday afternoon at the YWCA building.

The honor was conferred upon Mrs. Lewars by the club "in consideration of her many achievements as an authoress and as an outstanding woman of our community, county and country."

Dr. Saby Heads Co. Society For Crippled Tots: Dr. R. S. Saby, Carlisle St., was re-elected president of the Adams County Crippled Children's society at the February meeting of the organization Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Eberhart. Other officers re-elected were: The Rev. Dr. Dwight P. Putnam, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington, secretary, and C. A. Wills, Fairfield, treasurer.

Radios, Phones Topped By Cars On Area Farms: The 1,200 cars in the eight townships near Gettysburg have more cars than radios, more radios than telephones and electricity and more tractors than running water, 1945 census figures recently compiled disclose.

Today's Talk

HAVE YOU A SHIP COMING IN?

I once read this somewhere, "It's no use waiting for your ship to come in, unless you have sent one out."

Within that little truism, I believe, lies the essence of success. You can have money to spend if you have earned it. The world is full of dreamers who never get out of the beds in which their dreams played around.

The most elaborate dream that ever floated around in your imaginings — or something — is not to be compared with the dream of the fellow who, with pick, perspires as his muscles drive into the rock the implement that brings out wealth and accumulation.

Every skyscraper was once the picture of a man's dreams. The railroads over which you ride — the airplanes that now fly through the air like great birds, the TV, the telephone that you grab almost automatically to send your voice across the miles — these were once merely dreams, fanciful imaginings, of some man's brain.

But these dreams were also ships that were sent out — that's why they came in! Are you expecting ships to come in? Well, in the first place, have you sent any out? If you have you may well expect them if you will with all the force of your character, work to receive them when they do — come in.

MAGIC OF CHILDHOOD

I never saw a cloud so black
But what some little boy or girl
Could reach right up and roll it back

And make the skies as clear as pearl.

I never knew so great a woe
But what it could be straight forgot,

If, somehow, I could only go
A-roppin' with a little tot.

I do not know a grief, I swear,
So bitter that a little child
Cannot make easier to bear.

For Oh, so often I have smiled
When anguish seemed to be my lot
And grim despair had hold of me.

Because a baby, knowing not My troubles, clambered on my knee.

I never saw a mother's tear
But what a little babe could dry;

And life is never bleak and drear
If but a laughing child is nigh.
The darkest, sternest works of fate
A baby magically brightens;
And never burden is so great
But what a laughing toddler lightens.

Soil District Opens Offices In Gettysburg

The Adams County Soil Conservation District has opened offices in the Topper building on Baltimore street, W. Clayton Jester, Biglerville star route, secretary of the organization, announced today.

Richard Long, Waynesboro, former soil technician in Fulton county, has been secured by the Adams county district and is now engaged in setting up the local office, Jester said. For the time being Long will be in the office only a few days a week. Later the district hopes to have the office open full time.

FBI TO PROBE FCC CHARGES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Harris (D-Ark) Friday promised full cooperation with an FBI probe of allegations that Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack received "thousands of dollars" from an attorney in a Miami television case.

Harris said that the investigating subcommittee he heads will call Mack to testify "very soon" on the charges made by the group's ousted counsel Bernard Schwartz.

Testifying under oath, Schwartz said Mack has acknowledged accepting several thousand dollars from a lawyer Schwartz said was active in getting a television license for a firm rated by an FCC examiner as the least qualified of four applicants. He said Mack described the money as loans.

Mack could not be reached for comment.

A few hours after the hearing, Atty. Gen. Rogers ordered the FBI to make a "complete investigation."

Schwartz has agreed to return Monday for further questioning on information he says he has about other FCC commissioners and Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide.

County History

The Heagy-Hunter Murder

By B. F. M. MacPherson

In the burial ground of St. Mark's Reformed Church, located approximately three miles south of Gettysburg, in Mount Joy Twp., there is a rough, brown fieldstone, with the following inscription:—
"H. H.
1817"

This marks the grave of Henry Heagy, who was fatally by James Hunter on June 23, 1817.

The "Adams Centinel" of June 30, 1817, gives a somewhat biased account of the crime. The impression is given that Hunter is an inhuman brute, sadistic and unfeeling. Heagy, on the other hand, is a young man of unblemished character who, through no fault of his own, is disliked by Hunter. Of course there are always two sides to every story and after a hundred years, more or less, the complete account, insofar as it is known, can be told.

Well Known Rivalry

Henry Heagy and James Hunter were near neighbors both living in Mount Joy Twp. near Larimer's Tavern (now Two Taverns). According to a fairly reliable tradition both were in love with the same girl, and their rivalry was well known. Heagy appeared to have the upper hand in this respect for he came of a respectable family and was a young man of good standing in the community.

James Hunter, on the other hand, was, according to an old account, "given to drinking." Under the influence of liquor he was quarrelsome and passionate. Nothing is known of his antecedents but it is quite possible that he was a descendant of the old Hunter family, early settlers in what is now Adams County. He was a printer, but worked at odd jobs, when not at his trade. Mentally he was far below average and it was this that led to his downfall.

Challenged To A Duel

Apparently Hunter had quite a few real as well as fancied grievances against his rival. To add to the sum total, Heagy's father was a constable and had an execution against Hunter placed in his hands. Henry Heagy assisted his father in Hunter's arrest, and the latter took offense and made some threats. On May 26, 1817, Heagy was returning from a fair in Littlestown in company with Richard and Abdiel McAllister when they met Hunter on the road. He (Hunter) was drunk and got into an argument with the McAllisters. Before the situation got out of hand Heagy stopped it by warning his companions, "Let that man alone, he is in liquor." This infuriated Hunter and he again threatened his rival.

The next morning a note, supposedly written by Hunter, was delivered to Henry Heagy. It challenged him to meet the former, with pistols, at Larimer's Tavern, on the following Wednesday. Heagy and the McAllisters regarded this as "a piece of sport." They went to the tavern on the appointed day but Hunter failed to appear. Undoubtedly Hunter was, because of this, ridiculed as a coward in the immediate neighborhood.

'Imaginary Injustice'

Because he was incapable of normal reasoning Hunter's sense of injury became greater with every real or imaginary injustice. Vengeance, over and above what he had suffered, was the only answer.

On the fatal day, Hunter, in company with several others, was mowing in Larimer's meadow, near the present village of Two Taverns. About noon of that day, Henry Heagy, again accompanied by Richard and Abdiel McAllister, went to Larimer's to hire mowers. After engaging the hands, all went to the meadow. Heagy and the McAllisters were invited to "try" several of the scythes. H. Little, the leader, offered his scythe and as Heagy was in the act of lifting it Hunter, walking quietly behind John Sionaker, drew close to his rival. He raised his scythe and struck Heagy "with all his might — on the neck." He accompanied the stroke with the remark, "D-d-n you Heagy, what brought you here?" Then carefully shouldering his scythe, Hunter walked calmly to his own house.

Heagy was carried to Larimer's Tavern. On examination the wound was found to be of a fatal nature. Medical science could do nothing. Notwithstanding Henry Heagy lived for a week, then died in agony.

Not Mentally Responsible

Hunter made no attempt to escape. He remained in his own house until he was arrested. Public opinion was so strong that no reputable lawyer in the county would undertake his defense. Thaddeus Stevens, a comparative newcomer to Gettysburg, became Hunter's lawyer. He made a thorough study of the case and soon came to the conclusion that his client was not mentally responsible. On this he built his defense.

Hunter's trial, in the November term of court 1817, occupied two days. Judge Hamilton, of Carlisle, presided. The lawyer for the defense attempted to show that a quarrel had taken place between Hunter and Heagy and that the threats and dislike had been mutual. He pointed out that the defendant was not mentally responsible, that he had struck Heagy in a fit of anger, without premeditation, and that the essential element of wilful murder was lacking.

'Guilty Of Murder'

The jury, however, after being out only one hour, returned a verdict of "Guilty of murder in the first degree."

From the court records we learn that the jury, composed of George Wilson, William Cobean, Stephen Speakman, John Black, Sr., James McCosh, William Biglham, John McKnight, John Pedan, Archibald Boyd, John Harper, John Stewart and Samuel Kennedy, was kept together by two constables and had boarding and lodging at the house of Bernhart Gilbert, innkeeper. During the noon adjournment they were "allowed not more than two gallons of beer or cider, with provisions," and during the adjournment between the two days "not more than three gallons of beer or cider with provisions."

Saturday, January 3, 1818, was fixed for Hunter's execution. In those days executions were public and morbid curiosity drew together a large crowd, women as well as men. The gallows were erected near the junction of the roads.

Hunter Is Hanged

Between eleven and twelve o'clock in the morning the condemned, clothed in his shroud, and bound with the rope that was to be the instrument of death, was conducted from the jail to the place of execution, accompanied by the sheriff and the clergy. The "Gettysburg Blues," commanded by Captain William S. Cobean, did guard duty. Several thousand persons were gathered around the gallows. After prayer by the clergy Hunter met his fate, having been swung from a cart driven under the gallows.

Hunter's body was probably interred, since there were apparently no relatives to claim it, in the old Alms House burial ground. This was located on the Buttonwood farm, along the Biglerville road.

NIXON CITES NEW PROJECTS TO BOOM WORK

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The Republican administration "will not stand by and allow a recession to continue or unemployment to rise," Vice President Nixon said here last night.

There is nothing wrong with America's economy that confidence won't cure, Nixon told an Arizona GOP rally. Rep. Martin (R-Mass), appearing on the same program, echoed the theme.

Nixon said that as the 1948 congressional election campaign approaches, opponents of the administration are sure to raise the cry that "depression is just around the corner."

But he said five billion dollars more in defense spending contracts will be let in the early months of 1958 than were let in the last six months of 1957.

Other Projects

He also noted that President Eisenhower has approved a two-billion dollar post office modernization program, and that about two billion dollars will go into the federal highway program.

The Vice President added that if Congress acts promptly on legislation asked by the President, there will be a quarter of a million more housing starts this year than the 1,100,000 originally estimated. Nixon also predicted the United States will win the race to outer space. "We sometimes are slow starters in a contest where new inventions are involved," he said. "We are fast finishers when we know what we have to do and put our unequalled natural resources and energies into the task of doing what needs to be done."

Church Deacon Is Fined, Sentenced

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A church deacon accused of forcing a minister to resign by tapping his telephone drew a $250 fine and six-month suspended sentence yesterday.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Allen B. Hannay levied the penalty against Henry Buescher for wire tapping. Buescher told the court he recorded a conversation between the Rev. O. W. Coburn of Spring Branch Baptist Temple and Mrs. Inez Caylor which "definitely was not innocent." Buescher said he felt a duty to expose the pastor because he was "a bad influence on young people."

"The end does not justify the means," Judge Hannay said. "It was dirty business and not a very judicial way to get information."

MIDVALE, Utah (AP)—Roger Furse and Russell Drake, both 9, are good pals but they can't seem to get together for birthday parties.

When Roger celebrated his eighth birthday last year, Russell broke out with the measles the day before the party and couldn't attend. Russell had his ninth birthday party yesterday, but Roger didn't make it. He came down with the measles Thursday.

MACK'S DEFENSE IN TV CASE SET FOR NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators will hear next week a Federal Communications Commission member's defense against charges that he accepted money from a lawyer in a contested television case.

Commissioner Richard A. Mack yesterday termed the charges "without foundation" and a few hours later plans were announced to hear Mack either Wednesday or Thursday.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) of a House subcommittee investigating the charges said that before Mack takes the witness chair, the group expects to hear from four men linked with Mack in testimony about the Channel 10 case in Miami, Fla. The four Miamians were called to appear on Tuesday.

"Thousands of Dollars" Bernard Schwartz, ousted last Monday as the subcommittee's counsel, testified Thursday that Mack had acknowledged accepting "thousands of dollars" from Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami lawyer.

Schwartz said Whiteside represented Public Service Television Inc., which won the Channel 10 grant from the FCC last year after a contest with three other applicants. Mack voted with the majority in the FCC's 4-2 decision in favor of Public Service.

Schwartz produced cancelled checks totaling $2,650 and said Mack claimed these checks represented loans from Whiteside. Schwartz quoted Mack as telling a subcommittee investigator, some of the loans had been forgiven and some repaid in cash.

Whiteside said in Miami Friday that Mack was a friend of long standing and that he had loaned him money over a 20-year period. All but about $250 of this has been repaid, the lawyer said. Whiteside, who called Schwartz a "liar," said he did recommend awarding Channel 10 to Public Service, but he never was retained by the TV firm, a subsidiary of National Airlines.

Mack Close To Palmer

Harris said Whiteside and three other Miamians mentioned by Schwartz were being asked by telegram to appear Tuesday. The chairman listed the other three as Circuit Judge Robert Anderson, Paul Scott and Perrine Palmer. Schwartz named Palmer as "a leading Miami political figure," and said Mack was close to Palmer.

The ousted counsel said Anderson formerly was a member of a law firm which represented Public Service and that Scott was a member of the same law firm and a director of Public Service.

In Miami, Anderson said "no comment. I don't know anything about being summoned." Palmer and Scott could not be reached for comment.

Whiteside's lawyer, Judge Richard M. Hunt, said "We'll be there Johnny-on-the-spot. This case is just beginning."

LAWYER WINS SUIT AGAINST MIAMI HERALD

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A former Dade County state attorney won a $100,000 jury award last night in trial of a libel suit against the Miami Herald.

John S. Knight, editor and publisher of the large southeast Florida newspaper, said the Herald would appeal the case.

George A. Brautigam, controversial figure in the debate over an interim report of a grand jury in April 1956, had sued for two million dollars damage to his reputation he said was caused by two Herald editorials critical of his actions.

The criticism of Brautigam's efforts to suppress portions of the grand jury report, Knight said, was "based on our firm conviction that a public official should not withhold information to which the people are rightfully entitled."

The 6-man Circuit Court jury fixed the onetime public official's compensatory damages at $25,000 and punitive damages — damages by way of punishment or example — at $75,000.

Brautigam, candidate for reelection when he opposed the grand jury report that dealt with actions of a Dade County circuit judge and three attorneys in the administration of estate, was defeated for a second term.

The Florida Supreme Court 10 months later upheld his stand and portions of the interim report were taken out of official court records. Brautigam filed suit shortly afterward.

'People's Agency'

Knight's statement said "The suppression of information has undermined the liberties of the people in every country where the press is muzzled."

"Our differences with Mr. Brautigam did not arise from malice or personal dislike, as has been charged. We concerned ourselves with his conduct of the office to which he was elected."

"The grand jury is the people's agency of investigation. When its findings are withheld, as Mr. Brautigam attempted to do, the people's right to know is in jeopardy."

Let's Look At The Record

LINCOLN'S PARTNER Herndon Abused By Lincoln Whippers; Partner Insisted Abe Was No Saint

ABE LINCOLN'S birthday is a reminder that Abe had a law partner with whom history has dealt unkindly.

"Herndon is jealous of Lincoln," "Herndon is ungrateful," "Herndon is a drunkard," "Herndon is an infidel slanderer of Lincoln," "Herndon is a pauper," "Herndon is a liar, a traitor!"

EIGHTEEN YEARS after Lincoln died, his former law partner was receiving scurrilous, libelous abuse such as the above. William H. Herndon, with a new partner, was still practicing law in Springfield, Illinois. In November, 1832, Herndon found it necessary to get out a printed circular under the caption "A Card of Correction."

In it Herndon categorically denied printed charges of drunkenness, pauperism, lying and treason that had come from sundry devotees of the martyred President.

HERNDON'S major crime was his denial of Abe as a saint.

And this is hardly surprising. To a lawyer, a partner is a trusted friend, an attorney and perhaps a politician. If the partner achieves high office by popular vote, the other partner often comes to the quite logical opinion that his former associate was perhaps an even better politician

TWO KINGS WILL RETAIN THRONES IN ARAB MERGER

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Holidays in Iraq and Jordan today marked the proclamation of their joining in an "Arab federation." President Nasser and some Western nations welcomed yesterday's action.

Citizens of the two Arab monarchies seemed to be taking the federation fairly calmly. There was none of the wild celebrating such as occurred in Syria on the proclamation Feb. 1 of the union of Egypt and Syria.

Unlike the complete merger of Egypt and Syria into the United Arab Republic under Nasser, Iraq and Jordan combined only their armies, foreign affairs, economies and finances. They will retain separate governments for local affairs.

Will Keep Thrones

Both King Faisal II of Iraq and King Hussein of Jordan, 22-year-old second cousins of the Hashemite dynasty, will retain their thrones in the federation when final details have been worked out within a three-month time limit. Faisal will be chief of state.

The two nations have been separated only by an artificial map line running through barren desert. Iraq has both the oil money and the river valley space that turbulent Palestine refugees in impoverished Jordan need for permanent settlement. In the past, however, the refugees have resisted efforts to relocate them, preferring to sit in squalid camps nursing their hatred of Israel.

There was no immediate reaction to the federation by the refugees, who support Nasser and have consistently opposed Hussein's pro-Western policies. The refugees were a key element in last April's abortive coup that almost cost Hussein his throne and his life.

See Nasser Link

At the United Nations, a spokesman for the pro-Nasser Arab League predicted the new federation eventually would link up with Nasser's U.A.R. in a sort of super-federation which could attract all 80 million Arabs from the Atlantic to the Persian Gulf.

The League spokesman, Kamil Abdul Rahim, denied the new federation is a countermeasure to the U.A.R., as some Western observers have described it. Instead, Rahim said it offers proof of the "historical inevitability of Arab unity."

U.S. State Department spokesman Lincoln White said: "We welcome any moves toward closer association between Arab peoples." White refused to elaborate when asked whether this attitude applies to the U.A.R.

A Foreign Office spokesman in London hailed the merger as a step toward the "stability and economic well being of both countries," but also declined comment on the earlier Egyptian-Syrian union.

than he was a lawyer. Herndon not only harbored such logic, but he also resented the sudden enthusiasm for making a wax figure saint of the most human of all the human beings he had ever known — good, old, plain, humorous, homespun, Honest Abe.

HERNDON, from a quarter of a century of close association, felt he knew Lincoln as did none other. He could not go along with the saintly thesis fostered by politicians who would sanctify their cause and themselves through association. The theme was being further promoted by such documents as son Robert Todd Lincoln saw fit to dole out.

J. C. Nicolay and John Hay, authors of the "official biography," were the beneficiaries of this scheme of things. It is from the 4,709 pages of their magnum opus that the pale ghost of Lincoln emerges wearing a tightly fitted halo.

HAY, an honest scholar, but clever enough that to see vital papers he knew he had to get along with Bob Lincoln, was thankful that reviewers were so dull. "If I had the criticizing of that book, what a skinning I could give it!" he wrote apologetically to historian Henry Adams.

What Hay did not know was that Herndon was skinning the book as fast as he could give lectures and interviews throughout the Midwest.

Since he lacked literary ability, Herndon had, since 1868, been trying to get the true Lincoln to the public through his own speeches and the writings of more able authors.

Indeed, he gave much to Nicolay and Hay, but they revised to Victorian tastes the little they used. They were also careful not to mention the source lest it displeased Bob Lincoln, who thoroughly disliked Herndon's dabbling in what he considered strictly a private affair.

With the Nicolay and Hay work completed, Bob Lincoln was burning official and family papers when Columbia U.'s President Butler convinced him the nation had a property right in them.

BUT HERNDON kept on lecturing and lending his vast store of material and information to others. Through Jesse W. Weik, of Greencastle, Indiana, and publishers Belford, Clarke & Co., Herndon made a major bid to give posterity the Lincoln he knew.

They made such a mess of the job, poor old Herndon was left pretty much in the role of a scandal monger primarily interested in the earthy but glib, youthful Lincoln, who ducked his scheduled marriage to Mary Todd. There was also the distasteful analysis of the Lincoln family tree.

Actually, in Herndon's sales of materials on Lincoln, now known as the Weik Collection, there is much unstinted praise of Lincoln and a personal admiration little short of idolatry. But praise had been given by others. Herndon's repeats were not news. It is thus on the seamy side of the Lincoln life that poor old Herndon normally was quoted, thereby keeping him in the role of a heathen, pygmy associate trying to smear the fame of a saint.

Even so, from the prolific pens of Albert J. Beveridge and Carl Sandburg, both of whom made lavish use of the Herndon materials, the America of our day enjoys a far more human and personable Lincoln. For this we may thank the much

Warriors Give Carlisle Stiff Battle Before Losing In Late Seconds 61-59; Jolt Jayvees

Gettysburg High came up with another fine performance here Friday night but this time it wasn't quite enough as Carlisle, surprised by the Warriors' all-around play, pulled the game out in the last 1:49 minutes of play 61-59.

The visiting Herd led throughout the first two periods before the Warriors got their first lead at the end of the third period at 45-44. In the last quarter the score was tied three times and the lead changed hands five times.

Carlisle opened fast on goals by Gary Knaub and Paul Sollenberger before Earl Little landed a pair to tie the count at 4-4. The Herd galloped off to a 9-4 lead before Gettysburg pulled to within 10-9 after which a jump shot by Bill Dittenhafer, two fouls by Mike Washington and a jump toss by Julius enabled the visitors to lead 16-9 at the quarter.

GHS Scraps Back
The Warriors got right back in the game on goals by Hardy Nichols and Little to start the second frame. Carlisle held to its lead and pulled in front 27-19 before Nichols and Little looped shots as Gettysburg trailed 27-23 at half time.

Carlisle piled up a 31-23 lead to start the third period but then the Warriors started to click. Goals by Little, sandwiching a foul by Ken Keefe, cut the Herd's advantage to 34-33 with 4:31 minutes left. Julius and Purney exchanged goals before Washington tossed in two long heaves. A three-point by Ken Keefe made it 40-38. Wes James looped a one-hander and Little converted two fouls. Knaub tallied for the visitors to make it 44-40. Sid Steinhorn sank the first of two fouls and Little captured the rebound following the second to land a goal as Gettysburg trailed 44-43.

Weikert Gets Trio
Sid Weikert, a replacement in the Warrior lineup, scored from underneath to give Gettysburg its first lead at 45-44 just before the period ended.

Weikert opened the hectic final period with a long shot. A foul by Knaub and goal by Washington tied it at 47-47. Weikert hit again from the side before Washington looped a one-hander. Steinhorn netted a long overhead toss to make it 51-49 before Knaub landed a goal. Sollenberger and Keefe matched goals as Gettysburg led 53-52 at the midway point.

Hold Last Lead
A set by Washington put Carlisle on top 54-53 but Little came through with a three-point shot as the Warriors went to the top 56-54 with 2:55 left.

Eckert knotted the score with a two-point at 56-56 with 2 minutes left. After a pair of costly missed fouls, the Warriors fell behind when Knaub hit from the side with 1:20 remaining. Julius converted a foul but Tommy Crist landed from the side as Gettysburg trailed 59-58 with 27 seconds remaining. The Herd, stalling for time, gained a foul and Knaub converted both tries. Little's foul completed the scoring with 17 seconds remaining as the Herd successfully controlled the ball.

Little In Form
Little went ahead in the South Penn Scoring race with 28 points to make his total 276 in 12 games. Washington netted 21 to run his total to 267 in 11 games. Little gave one of his finest all-around performances and his 12 goals came on all kinds of shots.

A vital factor in the outcome was the ability of the visitors to gain possession on practically all tap-offs as well as under the boards. Each team landed 12 goals but the visitors caged 11 of 16 fouls while the Warriors converted only nine of 17.

The Gettysburg reserves succumbed to the superior height of the visitors in the preliminary 51-38.

Face Mechanicsburg
Next opponent for the Warriors will be Mechanicsburg on the latter's floor Tuesday evening.

DELANY MEETS HUNGARIAN IN GARDEN TONIGHT

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Runner meets racer tonight in the Baxter Mile in the New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden.

Further, Delany, the Olympic 1,500-meter champion from Villanova by way of Ireland, has won 19 straight mile races over the past three years of running on boards. He's used to the indoor tracks and possesses a remarkable spring finish that has ground down all his opposition.

Rozsavolgyi, who holds the listed world records at 1,000, 1,500 and 2,000 meters, goes all out at the start. Pace means nothing. If there is a world record listed for the event, he goes for it.

He says he will try to break Gunnar Nielsen's world indoor mile mark of 4:03.6. But he never has run indoors in his life and never saw a board track until he arrived from Budapest Thursday.

Jim Grelle, the 4:07.1 Oregon runner-up to Delany in the NCAA championships last spring, will make his first indoor start in the race. Also on hand will be Jim Beatty of the Army, Burr Grim of Maryland, Peter Close of St. John's and Zbigniew Orywal of Poland.

Dave Scurlock of North Carolina is the favorite to make it three straight by winning the Matt Halpin Halfmile, while Charlie Jenkins, Villanova's Olympic 400-meter champion, is the choice in the Buermeier 500.

Velisa Mugosa of Yugoslavia, who has been second to Deacon Jones in the past couple of races, appears ready to win the Tonsaint two-mile (Jones is tied up with Big 10 business), the 60-yard hurdles should be all Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem Teachers, and the 60-yard dash could develop into a battle between Lt. Ken Kave of the Army and Duke's Dave Sime. Ira Murchison is absent.

Parry O'Brien (who else?) is the No. 1 shotputter. Occidental's two-mile relay team gets its final chance to break the 7:33.6 record hung up in 1942 by Seton Hall.

Runs Third Straight Sub 4-Minute Mile

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Herb Elliott, Australia's newest mile sensation, ran his third straight sub-4-minute mile today. He beat Mervyn Lincoln by a step at Leederville oval in 3:59.6.

Lincoln was credited with the same time in what is believed to be the world's fastest mile run on a grass track.

The 19-year-old Elliott had hoped to break John Landy's listed world mark of 3:58 and the still unrecognized figure of 3:57.2 by England's Derek Ibbotson on a cinder track.

Today's race was virtually a repeat of the Elliott-Lincoln mile at Olympic Park in Melbourne on Jan. 30. Then Elliott won by a yard in 3:58.7 and Lincoln was clocked in 3:59. Five days earlier Elliott had run the mile in 3:59.9.

BUILDBUILDING AND FARM

Farm Accident Rate Higher Than Industry; Fruit Farms Shown To Be Most Dangerous

During 1954-55 the Pennsylvania State University, with the cooperation of the vocational agricultural departments in high school throughout the state, made a study of farm accidents. During this period, 1,500 Future Farmers completed records of 2,288 farms as to the different types and sizes of farms in various localities.

Farming is a highly dangerous occupation. According to 1954-55 statistics from the National Safety Council, agriculture workers had an accidental death rate of 60 per 100,000 workers, compared to 25 per 100,000 for all industrial workers. There were 4,930 additional workers out of every 100,000 injured non-fatally in agricultural occupations compared to 3,240 per 100,000 in industry.

In comparison to the industrial worker, the farmer is probably equipped with fewer specialized tools, is not as well trained in their use, works longer at more irregular hours in a greater variety of activities and in more diverse year-around hazards. In the farmer, there is no one to enforce safety measures on the farmer except himself.

246 Deaths In Pa.
There were 30 accidental deaths reported on the 2,288 Pennsylvania farms during the five years before this study and six fatal accidents reported during the survey year. This gives an average of six accidental deaths per year over the last six years on the farms surveyed. At this rate the whole of Pennsylvania with about 130,000 farms might have approximately 340 accidental deaths per year. The U.S.D.A. study reports that during 1940-45 period Pennsylvania had 591 fatal accidents. On the 2,288 farms in this survey, 354 nonfatal accidents were reported on 290 farms with a total of 305 people being injured.

The type of farming that is practiced affects the numbers of accidents and the type of accidents that are likely to occur. Fruit and vegetable farms have the highest accident rate followed by dairy farms. General farms have the lowest rate. Farms that use more machinery have higher accident rates. Although the larger farm operation is safer per hour of work put in, accidents occur throughout the year. About the same number each month with 10.8 per cent in November, the highest; 5.9 per cent in May, the lowest. Wednesday and Saturday are the more hazardous days of the week as 46.9 per cent of all accidents occur during these two days. The most dangerous time of day is from two to four p.m. as 25 per cent of the accidents occur within these two hours. From two to six there are almost twice as many accidents occurring as from eight to twelve. Most of the accidents occur in the farm fields, farm yards, or in the barn.

Boys Likely Victims
Farm machinery is involved in 40 per cent of the accidents. Tractor accidents are about twice as dangerous as the four wheel type. Animal chores, cutting wood, harvesting operations, and construction and repairs are the activities that are most frequently engaged in at the time of accidents.

Boys from ages 15-19 have the highest accident rates of 29.7 per cent followed by men from 30-39. Males in general have ten times as many accidents as females. Eighty per cent of the accidents are attributed to carelessness, haste, and forgetfulness. If these three personal factors are curbed a lot will be done to decrease about four-fifths of all accidents.

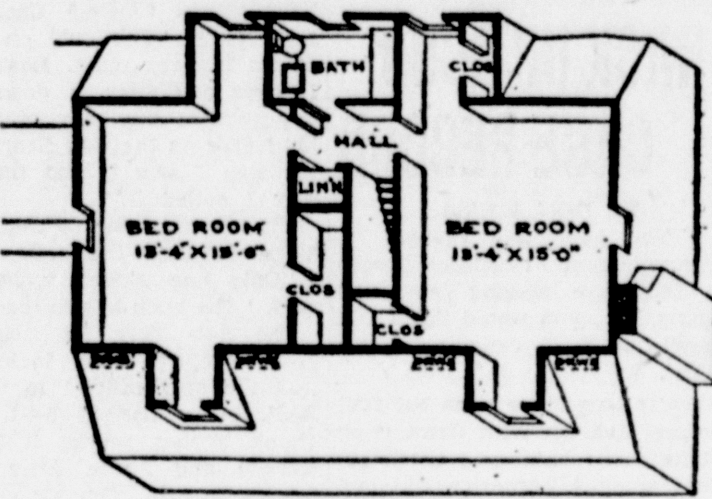

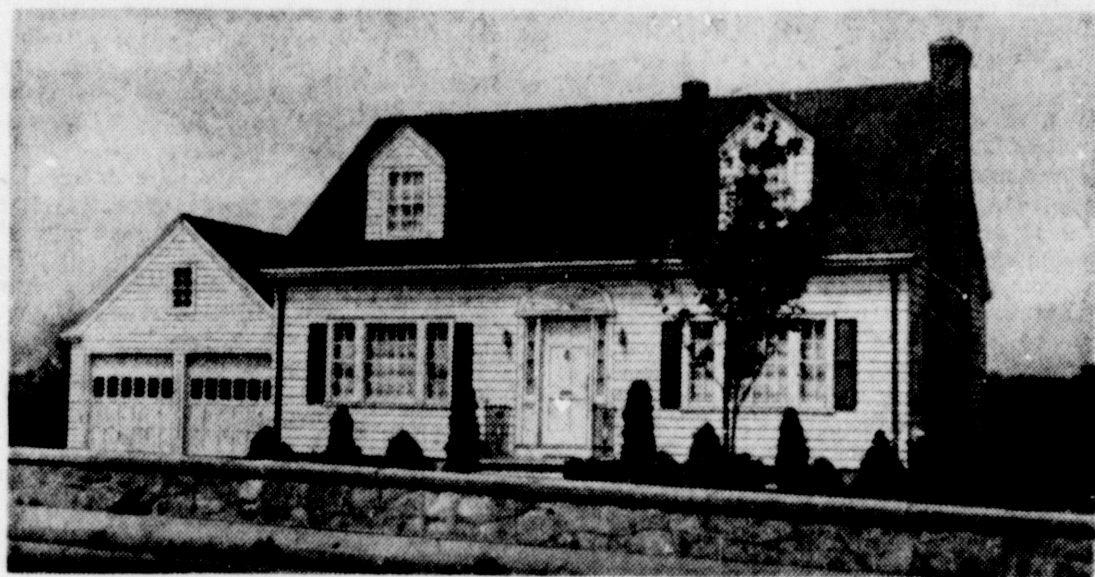

So far nothing has been said about the cost of accidents. The average cash cost of an accident was $55, mainly in the medical bills. The average loss of time for an accident was six days. Computing the labor cost for an average farmer's day at a dollar an hour for a ten hour day, the farmer lost $60 worth of time per accident. At a conservative estimate, the average Pennsylvania farm accident in this survey cost the farmer $115. At this rate the total loss on all Pennsylvania farms would amount to approximately $4,500,000. If 80 per cent of the accidents are due to carelessness this would mean that we could reduce this cost to only $900,000. Wouldn't you say it is worth a try?

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.) says that the cost of the state government has increased 40 per cent under the Leader administration.

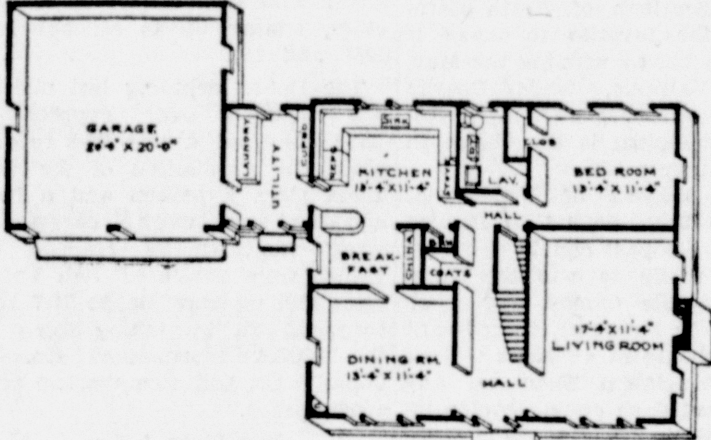

In an address last night at the 56th annual Lincoln Day dinner of the Allegheny County Republican organization, Martin said: "The latest available report is that we have 860 million dollars in 'authority debt' (issued without vote of the people) and 340 million dollars in debt backed by the full faith and credit of the state."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

The Cambridgeport Has Plenty Of Space

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Three
Closets	Eight
Cubage
House	21,500'
Garage	6,600'
Dimensions
House	35' x 29'
Overall	64'

Designed in an ever-popular, two-story style, "The Cambridgeport," offered to-day by the Home of the Week Plan Service, offers a wealth of comfortable well-planned living space for a reasonable building cost. Six good-sized rooms are included in this plan with complete living facilities provided on the first floor so that you can have the second story finished at your convenience. And, even after the second floor is completed, most families find a first-floor bedroom very useful. It makes a handy guest room and also the ideal room for any member of the family to use when ill.

60-Foot Lot
Measuring 35 by 29 feet, the house has a cubage of 21,500 feet. Cubage of the garage is 6,600 feet. You'll need only about a 60-foot lot on which to build this house. And, you'll find any type of exterior finish equally suitable.

Both a living room and a dining room are provided for in this house plan. Should you desire to use the room designated as a dining as a den, library, etc., such a conversion can easily be made. But, if the living room is to serve a dual function, arrange to have a door connect this room with the central hallway.

The separate breakfast room will prove very useful — especially if you do decide to make the living room a combination room. Also opening off the kitchen is the pleasant and good-sized utility room where you can easily locate your laundry equipment. You'll appreciate the handy cupboards suggested for this room, too.

Garage Access
Direct access to the garage is provided from this utility room so that in storm weather you won't have to go outside.

Do's and Don't's

By ANDREW C. LANG
The Associated Press

DO . . . know that many leading paint manufacturers are packaging paints, enamels, lacquers, etc., in aerosol spray cans for touch-up jobs, hard-to-reach places and small objects.

DO . . . before using, shake the aerosol can vigorously, then turn it upside down and spray a few bursts of gas to clear the nozzle.

DO . . . hold the can 12 to 14 inches from the surface being sprayed to prevent a bubbly, saggy result.

DO . . . make sure that the can is not too cold. This will cause a drop in the gas pressure.

DON'T . . . store aerosol paint cans in temperatures of over 120 degrees; avoid exposure in sunny window areas and the back seats of autos, for instance.

DON'T . . . puncture the can or throw empty cans into incinerators or rubbish fires.

DON'T . . . let the paint pile up in one spot or hold the can too close, either of which causes runs and sags.

DON'T . . . think the can is empty if only clear gas is coming out; try giving the valve head half a turn, which will dip the curved, inside tube into the paint solution.

Almost half of all the eggs sold in the United States are produced in five states — California, Minnesota, Iowa, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. So says Clayton P. Libeau, egg marketing specialist for the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

SAYS SHE GAVE TIP ON STENGLE

COLLINGDALE, Pa. (AP)—A Collingdale school secretary says she revealed her suspicions about Faber E. Stengle to the school board treasurer a full month before Stengle was arrested and charged with embezzling school funds.

Mrs. Ethel Blackburn made the assertion in a signed statement to a meeting Thursday night of the school board. Stengle is charged with speculations involving between $125,000 and $200,000.

The statement was presented to

DELIVER BABE WHILE MOTHER IS HYPNOTIZED

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa. (AP)—A six-pound daughter, delivered by Caesarean section Monday while the mother, Noreen Malutich, was under hypnosis—but awake—was the mother's most cherished Valentine Friday.

The Caesarean delivery under hypnosis was described as rare by doctors.

The 28-year-old mother said "it was just wonderful. Anything that doesn't have any pain connected with it is wonderful."

Second Caesarean Mrs. Malutich was a British war bride of Walter Malutich, 36. They were married 13 years ago. They have five other children.

The surgery was performed in the Mary Evans Memorial Maternity Hospital at Ellwood City by Dr. James Gardner. Dr. Fred A. Obley placed Mrs. Malutich under hypnosis.

Dr. Obley said he has used hypnosis in nearly 40 normal births, but this was the first time he has tried it with a Caesarean operation.

Last year Mrs. Malutich gave birth to a child by Caesarean section while she was under an anesthetic.

HI COURT BACKS BANNED FILM

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has given the French film "And God Created Woman" a second life in Philadelphia.

The high court, in a 5-1 opinion signed Thursday by Chief Justice Charles A. Jones, ordered Dist. Atty. Victor Blanc to refrain from interfering "in any way with the showing of the film at either or both" of two local theaters.

Blanc ordered two copies of the film to be confiscated earlier this week when the managers of the two theaters were arrested under a charge of violating the state's obscenity law.

The Supreme Court ordered Blanc to stop interfering until the Philadelphia Common Pleas Court acts on a suit filed by the exhibitors seeking to restrain Blanc from halting the showing of the film. The lower court declined to issue a preliminary injunction and Blanc then seized the film.

The Supreme Court also pointed out that the constitutionality of the state's obscenity law is now pending before the court in another case.

Police in York and Harrisburg have termed the film, "lewd and lascivious" while officials in Lancaster said they found nothing to warrant a ban on the picture.

Some Rural Routes Blocked By Snow

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Rural routes in some sections of western Pennsylvania were blocked by new snow Friday in the wake of an overnight storm that left an additional three inches in some areas.

In Somerset the State Highway Department reported about 10 percent of the secondary and rural roads closed. Thursday night three to four inches of new snow covered the area, and high winds drifted snow. Snow plows are cinderling crews kept main roads open.

Johnstown, with two or three inches of new snow, called highway crews on 24-hour duty. Indiana also had three inches of snow and the temperature was 14 degrees above zero.

Similar conditions were reported for Butler.

the board by Howard Richard, an attorney representing a group of Collingdale taxpayers. Mrs. Blackburn wrote that she had revealed her suspicions of Stengle, former school district superintendent, to James D. McBride, the board treasurer.

After hearing the statement McBride denied Mrs. Blackburn ever told him anything about the superintendent's alleged manipulations. Other board members made no comment.

Richard suggested the board make a thorough investigation.

PMF Merger Up To Local Groups

HARRISBURG (AP)—The president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation said Friday the proposed merger of his organization and other state auto clubs would be left to local option.

John S. Giles, Reading, told a PMF Secretaries and Managers Conference here that the state group had received the "green light" for merger from our parent group, the nationwide American Automobile Assn.

"While we favor this move, we propose to leave it up to local affiliate clubs to make the decision, since they are more familiar with their own problems," Giles said.

POLAND TO GET ECONOMIC AID FROM YANKEES

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Communist Poland are expected to announce today or tomorrow a new 95-million-dollar U.S. economic aid program for Poland.

This would be in addition to a 95-million-dollar agreement signed last year.

It means Polish negotiators will have gotten almost two-thirds of the 300 million dollars in economic aid they sought when they first came to Washington in January 1957.

The new agreement, calls for 70 million dollars in surplus farm goods and a loan of 25 million dollars.

Wheat And Cotton The surplus farm goods, according to officials, include 400,000 tons of wheat, cotton and other commodities.

The 25 million dollars will come from President Eisenhower's special aid fund. Interest on this loan was expected to be 4½ per cent, with payments over 20 years. It will be administered by the Export-Import Bank.

The loan will pay for transportation costs, as well as for purchase of hides, skins and non-surplus farm goods. Officials said it does not call for purchase of mining machinery.

Mining Gear The 1957 aid agreement included four million dollars for mining gear, urgently needed in Poland. This was part of a 30-million-dollar credit, also at 4½ per cent interest for 20 years. The 1957 program also included 65 million dollars worth of surplus wheat, cotton, fats and oils.

Under U.S. law, the surplus farm goods are sold for local currency, in this case Polish zlotys. However, much of the money then is turned over to the foreign government for use in economic development programs. The rest of the foreign currency is used to pay U.S. obligations in the country concerned.

THREE RESCUERS ARE ENGULFED BY SNOWPLOW

OURAY, Colo. (AP)—Three men seeking to rescue a fourth engulfed by a snowslide yesterday and presumed dead.

The threat of further slides imperiled would-be rescuers who worked in snow, rock and short timber 60 feet deep in zero temperatures.

Sheriff Bud Slott of Ouray County said of the victims, "It would be impossible for any of them to be alive."

Oscar Franz, a county commissioner, said the last hope for the four vanished when searchers dug 18 feet to reach a bulldozer on which three of the missing men were standing when the second slide struck. It was hoped they might have crawled beneath the vehicle and gained safety in an air pocket. But none was there.

The four are Ted Mason, 42, Walt Smith, 45, Danny Gerrell, 27, and Mike Muransky, 40, all of Ouray. Each was married and had children. Mason had six, Muransky two, Smith and Gerrell one each.

Mason was engulfed yesterday morning by the first of the two slides, which acted as a giant pincers, coming from opposite directions. About 4½ hours elapsed between them.

FBI Arrests Two, Recovers $35,000 In Bank Robbery

BALTIMORE (AP)—FBI agents have recovered $35,000 and arrested two men charged with the Wednesday holdup of a suburban bank.

A lone bandit, waving a snub-nosed revolver, staged the actual holdup. He held five customers at bay and forced four tellers in the Sparrows Point branch of the Provident Savings Bank to stuff $35,280 in bills into a laundry bag. He fled in a car he drove himself, eluding hastily erected road blocks.

Less than 40 hours later a dozen FBI men surrounded a North Baltimore rooming house yesterday and nabbed 22-year-old Martin Joseph McNicholas.

In the basement they found hidden in a steamer trunk $14,880 of the loot, plus a .38 caliber snub nose pistol.

Army Deserter The tall, strapping McNicholas, formerly of Yonkers, N.Y., identified by the FBI as an Army deserter and fugitive from a four-year military sentence, was charged with the actual holdup. He waived preliminary hearing and was held in $100,000 bail.

The FBI said he refused to say where the rest of the bank money was hidden.

About 14 hours later, FBI agents entered the downtown office of the Baltimore Gas and Electric Co., where they arrested Robert K. Pippin at his work as a draftsman.

Pippin, 25, formerly of Easton, Md., was held in $50,000 bail on charges of aiding and abetting in the holdup. The FBI did not say just what part he is accused of playing.

Recovers $20,000 Less than five hours after his arrest, agents recovered about $20,000 somewhere in Yonkers.

James J. Kelly, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said McNicholas—alias Mario Perna—joined the Army in December, 1953, after graduating from a Yonkers High School.

He was sentenced to four years for being absent without leave and sent to the Army disciplinary barracks at New Cumberland, Pa. Later he was transferred to the Navy disciplinary barracks at Portsmouth, N.H., from which he escaped in September, 1955.

Two clues—fingerprints and tips from neighbors about McNicholas—led to the arrests.

DEATHS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PARIS (AP)—Sir Charles Mendel, 86, press attaché at the British embassy in Paris from 1926 until 1940 and a leading British diplomatic figure between World Wars I and II, died Thursday.
